Credit Union 24 is the first ATM and POS network that Radford Pipe Shop Employees FCU has joined in its 72-year history.

"The addition of debit card services combined with the largest fee-free ATM and POS access in the nation is a vast upgrade to our overall financial services offerings," said Sandy Dolinger, CEO of Radford Pipe Shop Employees FCU. "By joining Credit Union24, we see this as an opportunity to offer our members the best value for debit card services as well as the largest access of fee-free ATMs."

Radford Pipe Shop Employees FCU will initiate its debit card services in August after joining the Credit Union 24 network, and will provide online banking services to members.

Radford Pipe Shop Employees FCU was established in 1937 in Radford, Va., to serve the financial needs of Radford Pipe Shop employees. Today, the credit union has more than $11 million in assets and provides financial services to more than 4,000 employees of the Radford Company and their families. The credit union also offers financial services to an expanded field of membership in the Radford area.

"The addition of debit card services for Radford Pipe Shop Employees FCU is a significant decision, and it is a great honor to be the initial provider of fee-free ATM and POS locations for this credit union," said Jim Park, president and CEO of Credit Union 24.
